About me

Hello, everyone! I'm Kyi Phyu, but you can call me KR. I'm an enthusiastic junior developer who is currently honing my web development skills at Litan EduCLaaS. Additionally, since 2019, I've been involved in digital arts, giving me a solid understanding of color theories, shapes, and foundational design principles. This knowledge not only enhances my ability to create exceptional UI/UX designs but also enables me to craft visually pleasing websites.

Furthermore, I've ventured into the world of freelance work by offering commissions for online shopping logos, digital fan art, and chibi artworks. Through this experience, I've developed excellent customer service skills and have even established Terms of Service (TOS) to ensure transparency and clarity for my clients before they commission my work.
